

Dear [[first_name]],

Hi everyone and welcome to the June edition...
Thank you for signing up to receive our updates and a big welcome to our new members.

BTH and University of Sunshine Coast (USC) Partnership

Better Together Housing is really excited to announce the launch of our research partnership with USC. This is such a wonderful opportunity to learn and share together, and provide a voice to our members. This voice will help us learn more about the women who engage with BTH and paint a more detailed picture about the unique circumstances that brought them to the program.

It will also provide invaluable information around how the program is working for members, and enable us to adapt and respond to the needs of our members. We know that women over 55 are the fastest growing group across Australia experiencing homelessness and housing insecurity, yet policy and program development does not yet reflect this. This partnership will provide an opportunity for BTH members, supporters and stakeholders to contribute to the broader analysis of what is happening for older women. It is so important to hear diverse perspectives and real stories and we are excited about the possibility this opens up for our Better Together Housing community to contribute to the 'big picture'.

If you are an existing member you will receive a warm invitation soon to contribute to the first phase of telling the story. Your participation is of course voluntary, and any information provided will be completely deidentified to protect and respect your privacy. We will be updating the website to reflect this new partnership so stay tuned for more updates.

Upcoming Events

Better Together Housing Forum

We will be hosting an open forum for interested women to come and meet with program supporters and participants and learn about Better Together Housing as an option for housing solutions.

The proposed date is:

Friday 25th June

10am – 12pm

Mecure Hotel, Kawana (near SCUH Hospital)

The date will be advertised on our website shortly, with further information about the purpose of the day and how you can share with your networks. This will be a capped event due to COVID capacity requirements so RSVP will be essential. It is open to all existing members and we encourage your participation to meet other members and potential new members.

Please check back at our website in the coming week for the event information and registration process.
